

NOLAN'S PAPERS ARE ON RECORD

Janesville Man Who Seeks Nomination For Congress In First District, Ready.

CHATS WITH SECRETARY HOUSER

His Papers Show That No Factional Lines Are Considered
In The Present Campaign Against H. A.

Cooper Of Racine.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., Aug. 3.—Attorney Thomas S. Nolan, of Janesville, filed his preliminary petition as a candidate for the republican nomination for congress in the first district, in the office of Secretary of State Houser yesterday afternoon. The petition was a bulky roll of documents, containing far more names than necessary under the law to assure the placing of the name of Mr. Nolan on the republican primary election ballot. The names presented in the petition attest the strong support of Mr. Nolan as well as the ability with which republicans all over the first congressional district have rallied to his candidacy. He has by no means filled a list of stalwart voters simply, for the lists contain the names of many influential republicans who have for years favored the retention of Mr. Cooper in order that multiplying years of tenure in office might increase the influence in congress of the representative of the district, and for other reasons. Perusal of the names of those who have signed their approval of the candidacy of Mr. Nolan must be a revelation to Mr. Cooper or any man familiar with the politics of the first district.

The number of avowed followers of the principles of the recently prevailing faction of the republican party in Wisconsin who have allied themselves with Mr. Nolan in this canvass, and who have given satisfactory proof of their alliance, is proof of an unusually conclusive power that the candidacy of Mr. Nolan is not a mere factional effort. Even if that were the case, it is observed here, the Janesville candidate should carry off the nomination. It is not questioned that Mr. Nolan will receive the solid stalwart vote, although factional lines are not as apparent, by far, in Mr. Nolan's petition, as one would naturally expect in view of his past political history and the coming out of Cooper, though tardy, in favor of the La Follette wing.

Open Their Eyes.
People up here do not come in very frequent or immediate contact with the reasons peculiar to the first district operating against the permanence of Mr. Cooper's tenure. Occasionally a tobacco grower or buyer comes up from Edgerton or Stoughton, and is heard to remark that the thousands of people interested in that industry are displeased with the efforts of Mr. Cooper in the direction of subjecting the tobacco industry of the first district to the competition of cheap Malay labor, or the far east, and the same is true once in a while with reference to the sugar interests. Occasionally a farmer who has been benefited by the sugar factory at Janesville, and whose land is increased in value by reason of that market for beets, is heard to denounce the vote of Mr. Cooper in favor of subjecting the sugar industry to competition with the Philippines.

Are Determined.
Possibly these are among the main reasons, and possibly not, but political observers here have become aware that there is a wide and determined sentiment in the first district demanding a change in representation in congress. From Beloit comes talk about a congressional blunder in the adjustment of a post office campaign, and more such reports come from other counties, particularly Lamoine, where it is said the local La Follette boss there, one Fred Kul, of university football fame, was given the disposal of a postoffice, when he undertook to barter to "Dick" Short, a La Follette

MANY MILLIONS ARE DESTROYED BY FIRE

All of the Treasures of Italy and Fire This Morning.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milan, Italy, Aug. 3.—Fire this morning in the international exposition did nearly two and a half million dollars' worth of damage. The bonchman and lively proprietor for a rake-off of $50 a month for the term of the office, or a note for $2,400 for the four years. Short seems to have kicked. He got no assurance out of a trip to Washington to see Cooper, and after he was refused the appointment, he gave the matter away in a series of affidavits that have been published, and the result was that Kull was asked to step out as chairman of the republican committee. There is no affidavit so far as known to show how much, if anything, was paid eventually for the postoffice. This is only one of the stories currently known, but they all point to dissatisfaction with the present representation.

Greets Houser.

Mr. Nolan came personally to the office of the secretary of state to file his petition. He was cordially received. Secretary Houser, seeing and recognizing Mr. Nolan, warmly greeted him and had a pleasant conversation. Your correspondent happened to be in the office at the moment and remarked jokingly:

"Better look out, Mr. Houser, if Senator La Follette heard that you shook hands with a stalwart, you wouldn't be put high in a state of mind in the halcyon camp."

Both Laugh.

Neither Secretary Houser nor Mr. Nolan took it seriously. They laughed just as every one is laughing these days at the talk about using galling guns to scare away stalwart voters. Nobody seriously takes stock any more in the denunciation by Senator La Follette of the man who is not to be trusted if he accepts the support of the enemy. The liver was cut out of that insincere political hybrid when the senator refused to declare outcast candidates Dahl and Beedle because they not only failed to train their guns on stalwarts, but actually wrote and solicited work from Stalwart Hanson of Beloit. On the subject of the "not to be trusted" character of Dahl and Beedle, the senator is silent as the grave of Methuselah, perhaps because a conference in Chicago prior to the closing of the recent session of congress, they were announced as members of the La Follette-Lenroot slate. About the only one, if any one, who is fighting off stalwart votes, is Governor "Jim" Davidson. As Judge E. W. Keyes, the old maker of victories for the republican party of Wisconsin, said yesterday to your correspondent:

Fights Stalwarts.

"Jim has never given us more than a pleasant look. He is fighting off the stalwarts, because he is afraid it might hurt with the halfbreed voters. We are keeping out of this fight. He don't deserve a stalwart vote, but I guess we will vote for him anyway—there's no law against it, not that I know of. We always used to invite all who believed in our platform to join with us. And you can bet that Mr. Lenroot will not sue out any restraining injunction if he hears that a stalwart wants to vote for him. And so no calamity is to be expected to fall upon Secretary Houser in any La Follette outpouring by reason of the cordiality of the state record keeper for the Janesville man. There has been a great deal of Christian respect for sincerity of opinion developed at this statehouse in the last few months. The atmosphere is more kindly and fewer "liars" and "hypocrites" are called. Possibly Mr. Lenroot will be elected, and after the heart of La Follette will cause a reversion of the old order—possibly."

FIND GOLD FIELDS NEAR THE OWL CREEK

There May Be Very Rich Gold Deposits in the Shoshone Indian Country.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 3.—Gold, copper, and other metals may possibly be discovered in the Owl Creek mountains and adjacent territory, says H. N. Dutton of the United States Geological Survey, in a report on this region. This report, which was made in accordance with a senate resolution, has more than usual interest because of its bearing on the value of the lands in the ceded portion of the Shoshone Indian reservation, Wyoming, which will be open for settlement in the middle of this month. There has been no development of mineral resources in the Owl Creek mountains and the immediate vicinity, but Mr. Dutton is of opinion that when the granites and associated rocks of the region are thoroughly explored, valuable minerals such as gold and copper may possibly be found. He predicts also that coal of local value will be discovered in the Laramie formation.

LUCKY BALDWIN NEARING THE END OF HIS CAREER

Living In Seclusion At Ft. Rogue, Manitoba.
He Is A Picturesque Westerner.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Winnipeg, Man., Aug. 3.—Under the constant care of physicians, who do not concede their belief that his case is a hopeless one, Elias Jackson Baldwin, or "Lucky" Baldwin, as he is known throughout the length and breadth of America, is living in seclusion at Fort Rouge. He is suffering from palpitation of the heart and doctors refuse to allow his friends to see him, because they fear agitation would be harmful. The aged man's struggle this time is not for gold, but for life. For over half a century he and fate have been playing a game of dice. Often the game went against him, but more frequently he won. Many years ago, when it was at its height, thousands of interested persons watched it with fascinated eyes. It was romantic, it was picturesque, like the man himself. Many times fate stripped him bare and laid his fortune in ruins at his feet, but with a grim smile he would seize the dice again, and with one throw win all back again. But this time it seems as if he is to lose forever.

Mr. Baldwin is now nearly eighty years old, having been born in Ohio in the year 1828. But his picturesque career has been identified chiefly with the state of California. It was that state that gave him his first fortune. Then he made another one in Nevada out of the Comstock. His fortune at one time was reputed to be $20,000,000, but much of it was wasted in unprofitable ventures.

The greatest medium for the diffusion of his name and fame was the palatial hotel and theatre that he erected on Market street, San Francisco, at a cost of $3,000,000. All the culture and pride that he had were centered in that hotel. A few years after it was built he saw it go up in smoke, and as he watched the flames wrap themselves around it he wept for the first time to anyone's knowledge.

In later years he spent the most of his time in developing his ranch of 60,000 acres, the Santa Anita, on which he raised some of the finest race horses America ever produced. He is the only man whose horses won four American Derbys. His famous Derby winners were Volante, Silver Cloud, Emperor of Norfolk, and Rey of Santa Anita.

What Mr. Baldwin's fortune amounts to now is not known, but he still is regarded as a rich man, with a principality of the richest land in the fertile San Gabriel Valley in southern California.

...FORTY YEARS AGO...

Jamesville Daily Gazette, Friday, Aug. 3, 1860.—Accident.—A man named Tyler, formerly an engineer on the C. & N. W. Road, fell from a locomotive near Watertown yesterday, and was so severely injured that little hope is entertained of his recovery.

What is the Explanation?—We learn that the river at Indian Ford is full of dead fish, which makes the water so offensive that the people in that vicinity have been compelled to take measures to send the floating carcasses down the stream. No one are not considered fatal.

A poor advertising medium may be likened unto a file which takes something from everything with which it comes into contact, but returns nothing which has been taken.

Chicago has a primary election tomorrow that will decide somebody's aspirations for congress at any rate.

That the Janesville Chautauqua is a growing institution is shown by the interest local people are exhibiting in the lectures.

Tomorrow is the last day the candidates for acceptance or rejection at the September primaries have of filing their nomination papers.

Mayor Becker of Milwaukee for a young man, is mighty strenuous. He does not let an opportunity to jump into public gaze pass him.

Some one has dubbed the Beloit Free Press a stalwart halfbreed paper. This is unjust to the paper; it should properly be labeled, "For the postoffice only."

Why does not the Milwaukee Free Press throw off the mask and come out openly for Leuroot? It has heard the whispering of the boss and it should obey.

That Lake Geneva postoffice scandal will not die down. The Milwaukee papers continually are referring to it as an example of what has been done in the first congressional district in the past two years.

Nolan has filed his papers for the republican nomination at the September primaries for congress with the secretary of state. His papers had more signatures than any other congressional aspirant yet filed.

The "ring" in Milwaukee is trying to renominate McGovern, the man who has brought trouble to Milwaukee, for district attorney. If they succeed the hypnotic power theory is sustained.

Where are all the sea serpent and fish stories of the present summer? Both Lake Delavan and Lake Geneva have thus far been free from that awful horror, the sea serpent, but there are hopes yet that one will appear.

The first congressional district has four congressional aspirants—two democratic, two republican. It is certain that two of the aspirants will be dropped at the September primaries and one of the two survivors at the finals in November. Sort of a game of golf, as it were.

Congressman Cooper, according to a Racine dispatch, hopes to have at least one week of Senator La Follette's time to help him in his fight against Nolan. Cooper thinks he ought to have this time for the able manner he assisted the Senator in his last gubernatorial campaign.

Canned carp, sold under any other name than carp, is a violation of the pure food law. It sold as carp who eats them? If sold as something else who eats them and under what name? Lake Koshkonong is furnishing a large supply to the New York market and it would be interesting to know how they are labeled when disposed of.

The Elkhorn Independent advocates Congressman Cooper's retention in congress because of the good work he has done for the district. The Philippine bill, for instance, that would take thousands of dollars from the pockets of the farmers of the first district. The Independent is consistent at any rate.

B. J. Castle's speech in Milwaukee on Wednesday evening appears to have created a furore in the ranks of the "faithful." The idea of one of their number daring to denounce the methods of the man they have all worshipped so long appears worse than sacrilegious. Poor Castle, the next thing he knows he will be classed as a stalwart.

B. J. Castle must have taken Mark Anthony's speech at the bier of Caesar for his model when he made that telling address in Milwaukee. He gave La Follette fullsome praise and then ripped the hide off his present actions. Coming as it did from a man so thoroughly identified with the past workings of the "reformer's ring" it must have been a shock to the "faithful" when they came to realize it fully the day after.

THE NEW BATTLESHIPS

In the battleships Michigan and South Carolina, for which the contracts have just been let, the United States government for the first time embodies the great principle emphasized by the war between Japan and Russia—that hereafter, in all probability, fighting at sea will be conducted at long range. The modern policy is to employ in the main battery only guns of a single size, and these of the largest practicable calibre. The dozen 7-inch rifles of the vessels of the Connecticut class, the eight 8-inch and the dozen 6-inch guns of the Georgia class will be discarded, and the sole reliance, except for repelling torpedo boats, will be 12-inch breech loaders. In the Michigan and the South Carolina the secondary battery will closely resemble but differ slightly from that of the Connecticut, but the largest guns which it will include will have a calibre of 3 inches and discharge a 14-pound projectile.

If Admiral Dewey and his associates on the General Board could have had their way, congress would have been asked to sanction an increase in the size of these two vessels, whose construction was authorized more than a year ago. The members of the General Board preferred a displacement of 18,000 tons (like that of the Dreadnought) to the 16,000 which was originally proposed. They also wanted to equip the new ships with ten big guns, another respect in which the Dreadnought would have been equalled. The board of construction and Secretary Bonaparte, however, did not approve of this scheme. Only such changes of plan, therefore, as the department was at liberty to make itself were effected.

In size (16,000 tons), engine power (16,500 horsepower) and speed (18 knots) the Michigan and the South Carolina will be identical with the Connecticut, but they will mount eight 12-inch guns, whereas no other battleship under construction for the United States or already in commission mounts or will mount more than four of that calibre. With the exception of the Dreadnought, the same thing may be said of all the other navies of the world. Four other powers, besides Great Britain—Japan, Russia, Germany, and France—are committed to the policy of having 18,000-ton ships, with no offensive armament intermediate between 12-inch guns and the small pieces required to discourage torpedo attack, but little headway has yet been made toward the consummation of their new plans.

The senate having thwarted the proposition to authorize a battleship even bigger than the Dreadnought, that scheme goes over now for another year. This country, nevertheless, will have occasion for satisfaction over the fighting qualities of the vessels just put under contract. The arrangement of their guns—in pairs along the central line of each ship—will make it possible to employ all of the eight guns in broadside fire, and in that respect the power of the Dreadnought will be fully matched. The Dreadnought can train six guns directly forward, whereas the Michigan and South Carolina will be able to bring only four to bear in that direction. On the other hand, it is probable that the gun fire of the new American ships directly aft will be more powerful than the Dreadnought's. It has been asserted that the two turrets in which the after guns of the Dreadnought are to be mounted will be at the same level, whereas it will be possible to fire one pair of the after guns of the Michigan over the turret in which the other pair is installed.

WILL SLAWSON KICKED IN FACE BY A HORSE

Animal Kicks Out and Hits Him in the Face Inflicting a Wound.

This morning while attempting to doctor the tail of one of his horses in his barn on East Milwaukee street Will Slawson, received a gash some three inches long beneath the left eye as the result of a kick from the animal. The horse is the little black which is Mr. Slawson's private horse and pride. He says the animal is one of the gentlest he ever had in his possession and never was known to kick before; but Mr. Slawson says any horse will do the same when irritated. The horse did not knock him from his feet nor did he lose his senses for an instant. Considerable blood was lost from the cut and when examined by Dr. Merritt the cheek bone was thought to be broken but later found to be in good shape.

BISHOPS TO CONTROL THE FRENCH CHURCH

Regulations to Govern French Church Made by Pope.

Rome, Aug. 3.—It is intimated in Vatican quarters that the pope's instructions to the French clergy relative to the law providing for the separation of church and state in France raises objections to the new regime and proposes to counter project by which the bishops will control the church. The Vatican authorities hope by this to bring about a modus vivendi.

Not Altogether a Compliment: The following doubtful compliment is a fragment from a love letter: "How I wish, my darling Adelaide, my engagements would permit me to leave town and come to see you! It would be like visiting some old ruin, hallowed by time and fraught with a thousand recollections."

Women as Poisoners: In cases of criminal poisoning a woman is nine times out of ten found to be the guilty party. Poisoning is a feminine crime par excellence. The Hindu practice of condemning young widows to be burned alive on the biers of their husbands was a sort of preventive measure against conjugal poisoning.

FACTORY TALK FOR FACTORY WORKERS

What Is Being Done Among the Manufacturing Plants of City.

In a general view of the work being done by the factories on the West bank of the river it is noted that most of them are having a busy season and by the middle of this month and the beginning of next will be running full force.

The Rock River Cotton Company are now at the beginning of their busy season and the traveling salesmen report a good market for their product. Orders have been taken for as many as thirty cases of cotton and the eight traveling men which the company now have on the road will keep the factory exceptionally busy during the coming season. Orders were received recently from one representative that will amount to several carloads when shipped. The average shipping amounts to about three carloads a day, and as the received orders fall due at least five cars of goods will leave daily. Most of the orders now received are for some time in the future, and a busy time is anticipated in about ten days.

The Janesville Sash and Door Company are about to commence on the finishing work for twenty-seven new three-story flat buildings, which are about to be erected in Chicago. This contract is one of the largest received by the organization this season and the work in finishing it will occupy considerable time. The woodwork for a three-story high school at South Haven, Mich., is being turned out and will be shipped in a few days, as will the work for the State Industrial School at St. Charles, Ill. A contract has been let to this concern for the window and door frames for the army post buildings at Fort Des Moines. Several residences will have their finishing done here among them being two handsome residences at Joplin, Mo.

The Blodgett Milling Company, who have just about finished their annual cleaning up of their mill, are starting on the season's business. The plant has been cleaned from top to bottom, the machinery overhauled and repaired and improvements made where necessary. The large engine which runs the entire plant has been thoroughly cleaned and is in fine running order. Carload shipments are being made daily and this year's product for the mills is being purchased in various sections of the country.

This Proposition Is Now Up

Can we longer afford to overlook the fact that we can secure the very best of dental service at about half the rates we have been paying? Dr. Richards of Janesville, the independent dentist, says he would be delighted to have his work (put out at a modest price) compared with work done by others at possibly double his prices. He affirms that the comparison will establish the fact that his work is good in every respect. His work is lasting. His work is done thoroughly. His work is substantial, and, in fact, not excelled by that of any other local dentist.

In addition to the reasonableness of his prices he gives close attention to painless work. Now see what you get by having him do your dental work.

THOROUGH HEARD FATHER NAGLE

LARGE AUDIENCE FOR PRIEST-LECTURER DESPITE WEATHER

ORATORY AND ELOQUENCE

Morning Psychic Studies Concluded

Tomorrow—Quaker Speaks in the Afternoon.

In spite of threatening weather conditions, a sultry morning and a clouded sky, the throng which gathered at the Chautauqua grounds this afternoon was one of the largest of the week. Father Nagle's lecture on "A Century of American Diplomacy" was the magnet card and with it he held his audience in close attention for more than an hour. At two o'clock the Jubilees gave a midday concert, which as usual called for storms of plaudits and following the address of the afternoon Miss Miller, the reader, gave a few sketches from life.

The First Diplomats

Father Nagle is possessed of a charming personality, a strong and rich voice and his lecture is a whole history of American diplomacy, summarized and made most interesting by his eloquence and oratory. The speaker briefly traces the history of America from the discovery of the continent to the present day, largely on the relationship which the United States has maintained with other nations and spoke of the men who represented America in foreign courts, from the infant days of the republic, the distinguished Americans at the time of the Revolutionary war, when many countries refused recognition of representatives from this country and others which admitted ministers, ignored and scorned them. In striking contrast, he pointed to America today and declared that we now live in the most powerful and prosperous nation of the earth which has no reason to fear a foe from without and whose consuls, ambassadors and ministers are honored and respected in every country on the globe. The honored names of Washington, Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin, Henry Clay, Thomas Jefferson, John Adams, and others were referred to and tribute paid their memory as the greatest diplomats the country has produced.

Faith in Country

Father Nagle said that although the country has many perils within which threaten its disruption, yet he had boundless faith in his countrymen and that when it comes to a crucial test as to whether the nation shall survive or fall another Washington or another Lincoln will spring up from the people and pilot the ship of state through safely. He commented upon the fact that America has always at every time of peril had at the helm men whose ability was equal to the emergency and predicted that it will ever be thus. He spoke of the emigration problem as one of the greatest that remains for the nation to solve. He declared that the principle established at the birth of the nation of extending the hand of welcome to America to all who come was right and that the best blood of the country at present is descended from the hardy stock which came to this country a century ago. With thousands of emigrants coming here every week, many of them of the less desirable class, the problem becomes serious and it is for the north to solve the question while the southland is seeking for a solution of the negro question.

Plea for Better Morals

In closing, Father Nagle made a plea for a better moral and religious atmosphere, declaring that upon a high standard of morality depends the safety of the nation. Without Christianity there is no morality, the one being the outgrowth of the other.

Hypnotism and Telepathy

The interest in the psychic studies being conducted each morning by Dr. Sowerby increases daily. "Probably not less than four hundred people listened to him yesterday and every day witnesses the circle of persons who are being interested. The candor and high Christian ground professed by him appeals to the very best there is in man and among those most deeply interested are many of the best and most substantial citizens. This morning he discussed hypnotism and telepathy as two more of the many manifestations of the mind of the spirit. He did not attempt to tell methods of hypnotism. He first sought to correct a widespread false conception. Hypnotism is not a special power in the operator or weakness on the part of the subject. No man can hypnotize another against his will. It can only be done on the basis of agreement. Neither does it have an evil effect upon the subject. The fact is in hypnotism the brain mind is asleep and the spirit mind is free to accept the suggestions of the operator. Mr. Sowerby distinguished between hypnotism and suggestion. Hypnotism always refers to sleep, while suggestion may be and is used in every affair of life. Suggestion is of three kinds. Direct suggestion is where a suggestion is made to have immediate effect. Post-suggestion is one whose effect will be seen at some time in the future. Auto-suggestion is one which rises in the mind of the subject and is the one kind of suggestion which often works evil in the subject. Many illustrations were then cited of the effects of suggestion and its value as a medium of healing was pointed out, since it is really accomplished on the basis of spirit mind agreement. In discussing telepathy the speaker pointed out the necessity of perfect attunement of two minds and in this is found the parallel of hypnotism with its agreement on the one hand, and the effectiveness of united prayer on the other. (Mth. 18:19). Of this phenomenon also many interesting illustrations were cited.

Dr. Sowerby finishes his course of lectures tomorrow, when he discusses the subject of prayer and non-medical healings. This is proving to be one of the most interesting series of lectures ever delivered in this city. When the doctor is off the platform is a common thing to see him surrounded by thirty or forty interested persons who are eagerly trying to gain more information on this important subject which is for the first time being presented to them from the truly Christian and evangelical standpoint.

Unknown Man Killed by Engineer Al. Shekey's Train at Palatine.

Passenger train No. 8, Engineer Al. Shekey, which leaves Janesville for Chicago each day at 3:15 p. m., ran over an unknown man at Palatine one day this week and literally cut his body to pieces. The victim in getting out of the way of northbound train No. 541, stepped onto the track in front of No. 8. Singularly enough the pilot failed to lift him from the rails and save him from the wheels. Two razors and thirteen cents in money, which had fallen from his pocket at the time he was struck down, were found upon the pilot. The remains were taken to Chicago and an inquest held, but the effort to identify the stranger proved unsuccessful.

The Manager Of the B. & A.

By VAUGHAN KESTER

Copyright, 1901, by Harper & Brothers

He heard and saw the 6:50 on the M. and W. pull in. This was the Chicago express, and the Huckleberry's local, which was due at Antioch at midnight, connected with it. This connection involved a wait of three hours at Buckhorn. Only one passenger left the train. He disappeared into the depot. Roger Oakley waited until it was quite dark, and then, leaving the strip of woods just back of the depot, where he had been hiding, stole cautiously down to the track. He had noticed that there were an engine and some freight cars on one of the sidings. He moved among them, keeping well in the shadow. Suddenly he paused. Two men emerged from the depot. They came down the platform in the direction of the cars. They were talking earnestly together. One swung himself up into the engine and lighted a torch. He watched what they were doing and stole nearer.

They were standing on the platform now, and the man who held the torch had his back to him. His companion was saying something about the wires being down.

He listened intently.

Antioch was in danger, and if Antioch was in danger—Dan—

All at once the man with the torch turned, and his light suffused his face. It was Dan Oakley.

CHAPTER XX.

DAN OAKLEY went to Chicago, intending to see Holloway and resign, but he found that the Huckleberry's vice president was in New York on business, and no one in his office seemed to know when he would return, so he sat down and

IN STRICT CONFIDENCE.

Women Obtain Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Help.

She Has Guided Thousands to Health—How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Mrs. Alice Berryhill.

It is a great satisfaction for a woman to feel that she can write to another telling her the most private and confidential details about her illness, and know that her letter will be seen by a woman only.

Many thousands of cases of female diseases come before Mrs. Pinkham every year, some personally, others by mail. Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years under her direction and since her decease she has been advising sick women free of charge.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence of women, and every testimonial letter published is done so with the written consent or request of the writer, in order that other sick women may be benefited as she has been.

Mrs. Alice Berryhill, of 313 Boyce Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"Three years ago I looked dark to me. I had ulceration and inflammation of the female organs and was in a serious condition. My health was completely broken down and the doctor told me that if I was not operated upon I would die within six months. I told him I would have no operation but would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He tried to influence me against it but I went for the medicine that same day and began to use it faithfully. Within five days I felt better but was not entirely cured until I used it for some time.

"Your medicine is certainly fine. I have induced several friends and neighbors to take it, and I know more than a dozen who had female troubles and who to-day are as well and strong as I am from using your Vegetable Compound."

wrote a letter telling him of the condition of affairs at Antioch and explaining the utter futility, in view of what had happened, of his trying to cope with the situation.

He waited five days for a reply and, none coming, wired to learn if his letter had been received. This produced results. Holloway wired back that he had the letter under consideration and requested Oakley to remain in Chicago until he returned, but he did not say whether or not his resignation would be accepted. Since there was nothing to be done but await Holloway's pleasure in the matter Dan employed his enforced leisure in looking about for another position. He desired a connection which would take him out of the country, for the farther away from Antioch and Constance Emory he could get the better he would be satisfied. He fancied he would like to go to South America. He was willing to accept almost any kind of a post-salary was no longer a consideration with him. What he required was a radical change, with plenty of hard work.

By far his greatest anxiety was his father. He watched the papers closely, expecting each day to read that he had been captured and sent back to Antioch, but the days slipped past, and there was no mention of him. Holt, with whom he was in constant correspondence, reported that interest in his capture had considerably abated, while the organized pursuit had entirely ceased.

Dan had the feeling that he should never see him again, and the pathos of his age and dependence tore his heart. In a manner, too, he blamed himself for the tragedy. It might have been averted had he said less about Ryder in his father's hearing. He should have known better than to discuss the strike with him.

One morning as he left Holloway's office he chanced to meet an acquaintance by the name of Curtice. They had been together in Denver years before, and he had known him as a rather talkative young fellow, with large hopes and a thirty eye to the main chance. But he was the one man he would have preferred to meet for he had been in South America and knew the field there. Apparently Curtice was equally glad to see him. He insisted upon carrying him off to his club, for lunch, where it developed he was in a state of happy enthusiasm over his connection with a road which had just gone into the hands of a receiver, and a new baby, which he assured Oakley on the spur of the moment he was going to name after him.

"You see, Oakley," he explained as they settled themselves, "I was married after you left to a girl who had come to Denver with a consumptive brother. They boarded at the same place I did. His companion was properly interested. 'Look here, how long are you going to be in the city?' I want you to come and see us."

Dan avoided committing himself by saying his stay in Chicago was most uncertain. He might have to leave very soon.

"Well, then, you must drop in at my office. I wish you'd make it your headquarters while you are here."

"What about the road you are with?"

"Oh, the road? We are putting it in shape."

Oakley smiled a trifle skeptically. He recalled that even as a very young man, filling a very subordinate position, Curtice had clung to the "we," Curtice saw the smile and remembered too.

"Now, see here, I'm giving it to you straight," I really am the whole thing. I've got a greenhorn for a boss, whose ignorance of the business is only equalled by his confidence in me. If you want to be nasty you can say his ignorance is responsible for much of his confidence. I've been told that before."

"Then I'll wait. I may be able to think of something better."

"There are times when I wonder if he really knows the difference between an engine's headlight and a coupling pin. He's giving me all the rope I want, and we'll have a great passenger service when I get done. That's what I am working on now."

"But where are you going to get the funds for it? A good service costs money," said Dan.

"Oh, the road's always made money. That was the trouble," Oakley looked dense. He had heard of such things, but they had been outside of his own experience.

"The directors were a superstitious lot. They didn't believe in paying dividends, and as they had to get rid of the money somehow they put it all out in salaries. The president's idea of the value of his own services would have been exorbitant if the road had been operating 5,000 miles of track instead of 500. I am told a directors' meeting looked like a family reunion, and they had a most ugly lot of nephews—nephews, were, everywhere. The purchasing agent was a nephew, so were two of the division superintendents. Why, the president even had a third cousin of his wife's breaking on a way freight. We've kept him as a sort of curiosity and because he was the only one in the bunch who was earning his pay."

"No wonder the stockholders went to law," said Oakley, laughing.

"Of course when the road was taken into court its affairs were seen to be in such rotten shape that a receiver was appointed."

Oakley's business instinct asserted itself. He had forgotten for the time being that his services still belonged to Curtice. Now, he said, "See here, haven't you ears you intend to re-bu-ild?"

"We're precious few that don't need carpenter work or paint or upholstery."

"Then send them to me at Antioch. I'll make you a price you can't get in- side of. I don't care where you go."

Curtice meditated, then he asked: "How are you fixed to handle a big contract? It'll be mostly for paint and upholstery or woodwork. We have been considering equipping works of our own, but I am afraid they are not going to materialize."

"We can handle anything," and, from sheer force of habit, he was all enthusiasm. He had pleasant visions of the shops running overtime and everybody satisfied and happy. It made no differ- ence to him that he would not be there to share in the general prosperity.

With the start he had given it, the fu- ture of the Huckleberry would be as- sured. He decided he had better say nothing to Curtice about South Amer- ica.

The upshot of this meeting was that he stuck to Curtice with a genial de- votion that made him wax in his hands. They spent two days together inspect- ing paintless and tattered day coaches, and on the third day Dan strolled from his friend's office buttoning his coat on a contract that would mean many thou- sands of dollars for Antioch. It was altogether his most brilliant achieve- ment. He felt that there only remained for him to turn the Huckleberry over to Holloway and leave the coun- try. He had done well by it.

BRYAN INDORSED FOR PRESIDENT

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 3.—Indorsement of William J. Bryan for pres- dent in 1908, the defeat of a resolution calling upon the na- tional Democratic committee to in- vestigate the charges made against National Chairman Thomas E. Taggart and demand his resignation, if they were proven, and the nomination of Charles H. Kimmerle, of Cassopolis, for governor over Stanley E. Parkhill, of Owosso, the only other candidate, after a spirited ballot, were the fea- tures of the Democratic state conven- tion held here Thursday.

About 350 delegates attended the convention, and placed the following ticket in nomination:

Governor—Charles H. Kimmerle, Cassopolis.

Lieutenant governor—Rush Culver, Marquette.

Secretary of state—P. J. Devine, Stanton.

State treasurer—Charles Wellman, Port Huron.

Attorney general—Judge E. J. Doyle, Grand Rapids.

Auditor general—John Yuell, Van derbilt.

Superintendent public instruction—Elmer H. Webster, Pontiac.

State land commissioner—Clarence L. Sheldon, Bay City.

Member of state board of education—James E. Sullivan, Muskegon.

But two candidates were placed in nomination for the governorship, Mr. Kimmerle and Mr. Parkhill. Mr. Parkhill drew unexpected support in the early balloting, and until Wayne cast his 130 votes for Kimmerle the result was in doubt. Wayne's vote gave Mr. Kimmerle the head of the ticket, and Mr. Parkhill immediately moved that his nomination be made unanimous. There was no contest for any other office, and, in fact, it was necessary to call the roll twice to secure a candi- date for auditor general.

Hits at Trust Evil.

The resolutions say: "Evils under the form of combinations and trusts, which have so shocked the moral con- science of the nation in the last few years are a direct outcome of class legislation by the Republican party, conferring privileges upon cor- porations at the expense of the common people. A continuance of such legis- lation is now threatened by the many bills of like character, as for instance the ship subsidy bill and inadequate remedial laws, enacted by the recent congress showing that there is no honest purpose on the part of the Repub- lican party to relieve the people from the evils thus cast upon them by this unjust legislation. Their affiliations with the classes thus favored make it absolutely impossible to obtain relief from Republican sources."

The platform then cites the rejection of the propositions of Senator La Follette with regard to railroad legis- lation as proof of these assertions.

Bryan's Indorsement.

The indorsement of William J. Bryan is as follows:

"Fully believing in the honesty, in- tegrity and wisdom of William Jen- nings Bryan, and that under his lead- ership the people would receive relief from the many ills above referred to, we commend him to the people of the United States as a candidate for pres- ident in 1908."

The resolutions further favor the nomination of all candidates by direct vote, nomination and election of United States senators by direct vote, a passenger rate of not more than two cents a mile in the lower peninsula, and three cents in the upper penin- sula, the elimination of the use of the cross at the head of ballots and the use of a cross before each candidate voted for, and enactment of laws making it a criminal offense for mem- bers of the legislature to accept rail- road passes.

The convention reelected John Winship, of Saginaw, chairman of the state central committee.

Its Object Attained.

A Cincinnati widow opened a mari- monial agency and married the first man who applied. The concern is now closed.

MINNESOTA PROBE WILL BE THOROUGH

RAILROADS ORDERED TO BRING BOOKS TO CAPITAL.

SERIOUS CHARGES MADE

Attorney Claims Earnings of Roads Increase in Other States While Local Records Show Falling Off, Due to Manipulation.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—The state railroad and warehouse commission Thursday entered an order compell- ing the railroads whose officials have given testimony in the merchandise rate hearing, which has been in progress during the present year, and which was lately resumed, to produce at the office of the commission all records on which their statistics have been based.

This order is the most sweeping one of the kind ever made by the commission, and if the commission is inclined to enforce it in detail, it would mean the bringing of the record of all railroads doing business in Min- nesota to the state capital.

Attorney Severance, representing the railroads, said to Commissioner Staples: "Why, if this order is en- forced it would mean the removal of the offices of all the railroads to the state capital." Mr. Staples re- plied by saying it would not do that, if the railroads would permit the ex- amination of the records in their own offices.

Order Is Far-Reaching.

This order of the commission is the result of a request made by Attorney Manahan, representing the shippers of Hastings, Minn., made at the hear- ing Wednesday, after the auditor of the Northern Pacific railroad had given a lot of statistics showing how the earnings of railroads had de- creased in Minnesota while they had increased in Iowa and Illinois. Mr. Manahan claimed that the statistics did not show actual facts.

The order of the commission is di- rected at the Great Northern rail- road, but may be made applicable to any road on request of the shippers' attorney.

Attack on Lawyers.

The hearing was opened with some- what sensational features, the climax being reached when James Manahan, attorney for the Minnesota Shippers' association, attacked the character of the law firm of the attorney present for the railroads.

"I am of the opinion," said Attorney Manahan, "that things could be learned much better by an adverse party investigation than by the work of the commission's expert." Mr. Severance has made light of what clients I re- present. I wish to say that I am mak- ing my request as attorney for the Hastings Maltine company, the Ship- pers of Hastings the Minnesota Ship- pers' association and for myself as a citizen of this state."

"As to what railroad companies we want examined," continued Mr. Man- anhan, "I believe the Great Western is operated with the smallest amount of profit. I have especially in mind the Great Northern."

"How long a time do you want to make your examination?" asked Com- missioner Mills.

"For as long a time as is necessary," was the answer. "I state deliberately that I believe the conclusions of Mr. Farrington, vice president of the Great Northern, are not justified by the facts."

Demands All Books.

"I am reliably informed that a large number of clerks are kept busy in fig- uring on rebates, returned to shippers as overcharges, in one case the rebate amounting to $7,000. I believe the 1905 profits of the Great Northern can be shown to be three times as much as Mr. Farrington reported. I believe the same is true of the Milwaukee road."

He was asked to specify the books he wanted, but insisted this was an impossibility.

"I want everyone, which sustains the figures offered in evidence," was the answer. "And further, I frankly ad- mit that I will make an issue if neces- sary that I do not have to specify the exact books."

As things now stand, it looks as if the hearing would get into the courts, and that at an early date for it is gen- erally believed that the roads will re- fuse to permit Manahan or any ship- per to look over their records.

Father and Son Killed.

Superior, Wis., Aug. 3.—Teles La- bree and his 13-year-old son were killed by a Great Northern engine near Saunders Thursday. They stepped from one track to get out of the way of a passenger train and were struck from behind by a freight en- gine.

Big Purse for Fighters.

Goldfield, Nev., Aug. 3.—The Gold- field Athletic club guarantees a purse of $20,000 for a contest between Gans and Nelson, and $10,000 for Britt and McGovern on Labor day.

Russian Forest Fires.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 3.—Immense forests in the Kostroma district be- longing to the government are burn- ing. This probably is the work of incendiaries.

Nineteen Hurt in Collision.

Vincennes, France, Aug. 3.—Nin- eteen persons were seriously wounded in a collision between electric street cars which occurred here Thursday.

Origin of Title of "Colonel."

The title "colonel" comes from a word signifying a column. The colonel was so called because he led or com- manded the column.

HIS EVASIVE PROMISE.

In Renouncing Whisky Bridgegroom Did Not Include All Intoxicants.

The bride exacted but one promise from her husband when they were married. This was that he should not drink whisky. It is needless to state, relates the Baltimore News, that when she made him promise this she thought she had made him a teetotaler. Whisky, to her mind, covered the whole field.

One night, shortly after the honeymoon was over, when the bridegroom came home and kissed his new wife, his breath was unmistakably redolent of something alcoholic.

"You've been drinking," replied the little lady, aghast.

"Only a gin rickey," replied the bridegroom, but watching anxiously the effects of this announcement.

"Oh!" said the bride, relieved, "I thought it was something that might make you drunk."

It was two or three days later that the bride burst in upon the groom with fire in her eye. "You have deceived me," she gasped. "You promised me you would not drink whisky, and, then after all you went and drank a gin rickey, and Mrs. Brown tells me they are the same thing, and I shall never trust you again."

Then the bridegroom began to explain, but he has not yet succeeded in convincing his unworried spouse that in renouncing whisky he did not renounce the whole family of intoxicating drinks, and he's very careful now about his clothes.

Indian Superstition.

In Sarawak persons of the Milanau tribe have a practice of depositing a large leaf, peculiarly folded, at the spot where the accident has happened, to conciliate the powers of evil. A man hurt himself in the rajah's garden, and some Milanaus employed there hastened to perform the ceremony of propitiation. The present rajah, Sir Charles Brooks, tells what followed in his "Ten Years in Sarawak." He disliked to see this litter on the path and told the gardeners to remove it. But the Milanaus said that the arm of anyone touching the leaf would swell. So the rajah threw it away himself—and two days afterward he had a painful swelling in his arm, which lasted a fortnight.

Enemy of the Octopus.

Conger eels hunt for the octopus and, when found, proceed to browse on its limbs. The octopus tries to hug the slippery, slimy conger tight, but in vain, and, finding its limbs growing less, discharges its ink in the face of the foe and, under cover of the turbid water, beats a hasty retreat. It is to escape the too pressing attention of its foe that the octopus possesses the power of changing its color to correspond with that of its surroundings.

Jennie—With Grace, it was a case of "out with old love and on with the new," wasn't it?
